TWO MEN HELD IN COUNTY HIGH-GRADING INQUIRY

State, Federal Operatives To Help In Probe

Officials Decline To Reveal Extent Of Investigation

Two men arrested January 14 for investigation are being held at the county jail in connection with an inquiry into reported high-grading activities in the county, in which the state mining department and the federal government is co-operating with El Dorado County officers.

Admission that the inquiry was under way was made Wednesday morning by District Attorney Henry S. Lyon and Sheriff George M. Smith, who declined to elaborate upon the statement except to say that John Bongard of the state mining department, and another man from the Federal Department of Justice are co-operating in the case and are in the county now aiding the investigation.

Arrested January 14 with a third man, since released, are Vernon Sparks 38, and Pat Reynolds 30, miners, but said by officers not recently to have been employed in this county.

Officials indicated that information which they have received pointing toward high-grading operations in the county will be followed to a conclusion and at this point the inquiry promises to involve several persons.

Sparks, records at the courthouse show, was arrested in 1932 in connection with a Georgetown burglary investigation.

Officials declined to intimate the quarter of the county in which their investigation may center.

GARDEN GROUP WILL OUTLINE CLUB PROJECT

Mrs. John Nelson, chairman of the Shakespeare Club garden section, will conduct a meeting of that group at the clubhouse next Tuesday.

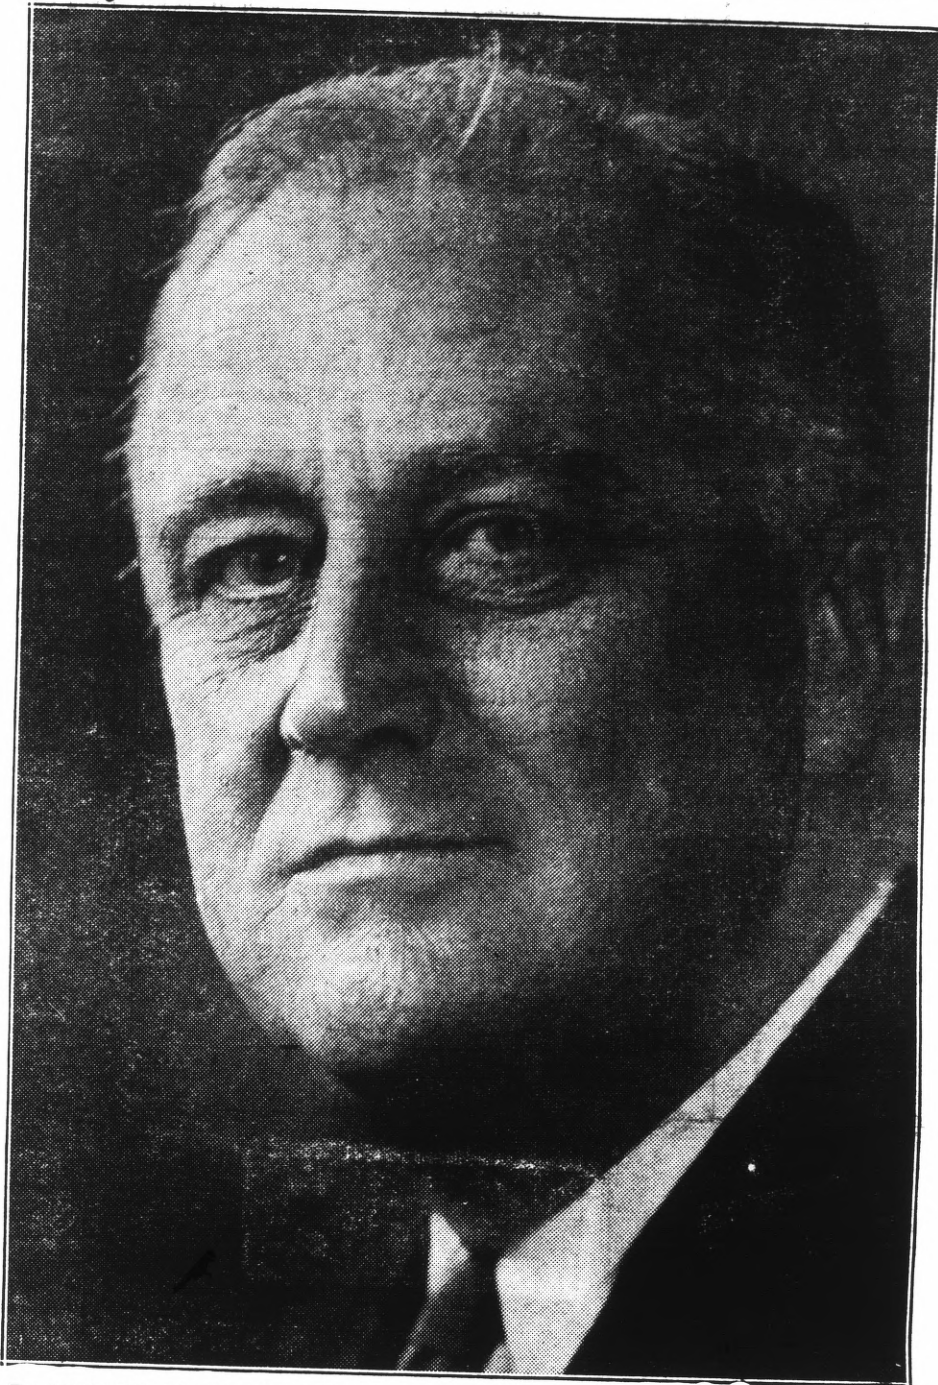

They will discuss plans for the planting of ornamental shrubs and hedge as a fence around the back lot of the clubhouse. This back lot has been a "sore spot" for some time the club reports, and Mrs. Nelson and committee intend to make it one of the beauty spots of Placerville as well as to enhance the appearance of the club building. They will make this their main spring project. It is understood that all shrubs and plants will be donated by the members interested in gardening. As this will be the first meeting of that section since November, a large attendance is hoped for.

Senior Boy Scouts' Troop To Be Formed

Troop 57 of Boy Scouts of Placerville has been closed to membership for sometime but now with the formation of the Senior Scouts, the troop invites all boys 12 or over to attend the next troop meeting at the Federated Church on Friday night. The Senior Scouts are boys 15 years of age or older who have formed a Explorers patrol which is still part of the troop. The younger Scouts do not like to play the same kind of games that the older Scouts play or do the same things, hence, the forming of the Senior Scouts.—Richard D. Walter, publicity chairman.

Chief Executive And Vice-President Receive Oath Of Office In Joint Rites On Steps Of Capitol

By LYLE C. WILSON

INAUGURAL STAND, WASHINGTON (UP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt took the oath for his second term as President of the United States at 12:29 p. m. today and pledged his New Deal administration to further reform to aid the under privileged.

"They have been challenged and beaten," Mr. Roosevelt said of "autocratic powers."

PLACERVILLE SUSPECT FREE

Portland Holding Man Suspected Of Bay Murder

Robert Lee Arzner, 29, with swarthy face behind a heavy beard, stoop-shouldered and with a broken nose is not the man who kidnaped and murdered 10-year-old Vharles Mattson.

Arzner was released Tuesday night from the Sacramento County jail following his arrest in Placerville Friday night by Traffic Captain E. A. Brewster.

Arzner was booked Friday night at the county jail on a vagrancy charge and Saturday morning was "floated" out of the county by Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis. He "floated" but was in the custody of a G-man who took him to Sacramento and booked him on suspicion in the kidnaping and murder.

Wednesday morning Brewster received word the man had been released. His finger prints didn't "check."

Arzner, according to Brewster, had also been arrested as a suspect in the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping last year.

Copies of the $10,000 reward circular in the Mattson case were received today by city and county officers. The city circular is posted in the window of the city hall.

SUSPECT HELD

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—A one-time amnesia patient from Louisville, Kentucky, who allegedly told police "I'd like to see every member of the Mattson family killed," was held for questioning today in connection with the kidnap-slaying of Charles Mattson, 10-year-old Tacoma school boy.

The man said he was George Wilson, 38. He admitted having been in Tacoma, but said he left there six weeks ago. The Mattson boy was kidnaped December 27 and his frozen body was found near Everett, January 11.

Coldest Night In Records Tuesday

Minimum temperature in Placerville Tuesday night was eight degrees. This was the lowest temperature recorded in the city since the establishment of the local co-operative weather station in 1918. Next lowest was 10 degrees, recorded December 10, 1932 and equalled two weeks ago.

Adolph Martin, co-operative observer, said "old-timers tell me that about 1889 it got down to six degrees above."

Notice of their intention to wed was filed with the county on Tuesday by Roland F. Smith, 21, and Viola Grace Clark, 20, of Placerville.

TAX NOTICE

City taxes are now due and payable and will become delinquent at the close of business on Monday, January 26, 1937.

FIFTH VICTIM IN AIR CRASH

Transport's Co-Pilot Dies Of Injuries In Hospital

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The death of C. T. Owens, 32, co-pilot of the Western Air Express transport which crashed last week, today raised the fatalities resulting from the accident to five persons.

The veteran pilot succumbed from serious head injuries and his weakened condition due to loss of blood. Owens had been a commercial airlines pilot for seven years, having flown for Pan-American prior to going over to Western Air. He was married and resided in nearby Burbank.

Others who died were James A. Braden of Cleveland, instantly killed; explorer Martin Johnson, succumbed the following day; Arthur L. Loomis of Omaha, Nebraska, who died Sunday and E. E. Spencer of Chicago who died Monday.

Investigation of the crash by federal authorities continued today as evidence was gathered for a public hearing here tomorrow.

Drunk Driving Laid To Placerville Man

John Spiva, 51, of near Placerville, was arrested Tuesday evening near Shingle Springs by State Highway Patrolmen R. P. Cornelson on a charge of driving while drunk. He was lodged in the county jail for a hearing.

Deputy County Clerk V. H. Benson is one of those confined at home by the current cold epidemic.

Sports Scribe Lions' Guest

H. S. Basketeers, Fans Join With Club In Meeting

Placerville Lions for their evening "stag" meeting at Hotel Raffles Tuesday, had as guest speaker Harry B. Smith, sports editor of The San Francisco Chronicle, who spoke rather wandringly but none-the-less entertainingly and in interesting fashion concerning some of his experiences and observations in more than 30 years of sports writing.

Owing to the special interest in Mr. Smith's visit to Placerville and in his comments, Lions opened the meeting to all parties interested and there were a number of guests, among them the county high school A basketball squad.

Past President John Palmer reported on plans for a "ladies night" meeting to be held February 9 at the Shakespeare Clubhouse and A. H. Murray announced an exhibition of badminton, to be given at the Shakespeare Clubhouse on Wednesday of next week.

President C. E. Barker conducted the meeting and called on Lion A. H. Murray, entertainment chairman, who presented the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Smith's talk followed the showing of a reel of motion pictures showing The Chronicle plant and staff at work.

2773 DIE IN AUTO WRECKS

268 More Killed Last Year Than In 1935

SACRAMENTO—Two hundred and sixty-eight more persons lost their lives in accidents on California's highways in the first 11 months of 1936, than in the same period last year, Ray Ingels, director of the state motor vehicle department, announced today.

The total for the first 11 months of this year was given as 2773, as against 2505 for 1935.

With three counties yet to report, the deaths for November were given as 318, an increase of 15 over November, 1935.

Miss Barnhouse Is Speaker For Club

The regular program day was held Tuesday at the Shakespeare Club with Mabel Jean Barnhouse the guest speaker. Mrs. J. A. Hodapp, program chairman, introduced the speaker to the members. Miss Barnhouse spoke of the Chinese slave girls brought into this country and sold by tong men. She also gave a short biographical sketch of the life of Donaldink Cameron and her rescue work in this field. Tea was served at the conclusion of the program by the refreshment committee.

Kenneth Henry Moller, six-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moller, passed away early Wednesday morning at the family home near Nashville. The infant had not been well since birth.

"The legend that they were invincible... has been shattered."

He indirectly challenged suggestions for Constitutional change to expand the powers of government. But he invoked the Constitution to achieve his ends.

A slanting rain swept the capital as Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President John Nance Garner were sworn in an open stand on the east front of the capital. Inaugural crowds hunched shoulders against a winter downpour. Soaked flags barely brightened a dismal scene.

Capital traffic, snarled in mid-morning, began to block as thousands swarmed down town in a typical parade-day jam.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes administered the oath to Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Garner was sworn a few minutes earlier by Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson. From coast to coast and around the world the President's words flew by radio as a thousand presses began to spin with the second inaugural message.

His address was the climax of a great political victory and the high spot of Washington's inaugural day.

Steel—And Then The Spark?

Let Us Do Something

Through newspapers, radio and motion pictures effort has been under way for more than a year forcefully to direct the attention of motorists and pedestrians to the dire need for the exercise of greater precautions.

The result of this campaign, so far as California is concerned, is that traffic fatalities have increased rather than decreased.

For the first 11 months of last year there were 2773 persons killed in motor accidents in the state and despite all of the safety measures that were advanced by newspapers, the radio and motion pictures, this was an increase of 268 over the total for the corresponding period of the previous year.

It does not seem reasonable to assume that the Public does not care how many people meet death in auto accidents.

What, then, is the reason for the continued increase in auto fatalities?

The answer to this question, we believe, is that only a small portion of the motoring public has resolved to drive more carefully, more sanely. We need more recruits to this cause.

That's what we need, an aroused Public Opinion;—then we may do something.

$200 PENSION EXPERIMENT UNDERTAKEN IN WASHINGTON

CHELAN, Wash. (UP)—C. C. Fleming, 62-year-old unemployed orchard employee, has a suit of store-bought clothes, a haircut, a barber's shave, a new overcoat and a subscription to The Chelan News—all because he has been chosen by Chelan citizens to test the "new-fangled" idea of old age pensions without benefit of government.

Fleming has $200. He can use it any way he pleases. It was raised through receipts from a community dance. Yesterday he spent $82. He still has $118.

Chelan people claim Fleming is the first man in the United States to actually experiment with the Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension Plan, now called the Townsend Recovery Plan. It provides for $200 for every person over 60 as a means of circulating money.

"I've never been so busy in my life," Fleming said last night when he returned to his modest home after a shopping spree. "I've never had so much money in my life since I was a cotton farmer in Brady, Texas. I went broke there in 1915 and came to Chelan to work in the orchards."

Fleming's unique and obscure role in American economic experiments had its inception with the visit of Ison Lamb, a "city fellow," from New York City and Utah. Lamb brought to this town the gospel of the Townsend Plan, and the Chelan people, who hadn't heard much about it before, were enthusiastic over its possibilities.

Lamb organized a community dance to raise $200 for a trial. A popularity contest was held to determine who should have the privilege of spending it. Fleming won.

Here is how the "Chelan Old Age Pension Plan" operates:

Each time Fleming spends a dollar, the receiver pays a two per cent transaction tax which will go to the Chelan bank to build up future $200 pensions. Each bill is earmarked for identification purposes at it passes around Chelan business houses. Merchants have agreed to co-operate. Attached to each bill is a slip of paper on which each person who handles it writes his name. At the end of a month, this slip of paper is returned to the Chelan bank.

The test will continue six months if every person who receives one of the $1 bills distributed by Fleming pays the tax properly, Lamb announced.

"I haven't kissed my wife so much since I was married," Fleming commented after a battery of camera men pictured him kissing his 56-year-old wife, Elizabeth.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP)—During my life time I have been mistaken for a number of things, including a plenipotentiary without portfolio and a Keeley-cure salesman, but it remained for Tony Acetta of Cleveland, national fly and bait casting champion, to mistake me for a fish.

The error in identity was made a few days ago in this town when Acetta gave an exhibition of his art. Along with some 200 other persons I was standing around Acetta watching him perform with rod and reel, when, after a careful study of the group, he pointed me out and asked if I would serve as his fish.

I gasped—probably a great deal like a fish does when he is out of water—and walked to the center of the assemblage.

"As fine a tarpon specimen as I ever saw, folks," Acetta said, and to my surprise no one disagreed. "Now," Acetta continued as he thumbed his reel and whipped his rod, "I am going to show you how to cast for a leaping tarpon."

Then to me:

"Now tarpon, if you will swim off a few yards and leap into the air, I will wrap this line around your neck."

This request bothered me on two counts. In the first place I was standing on dry land and to swim through grass seemed too much to do even for a man named Acetta. Secondly, I come from an old Georgia family where a fear of having anything in the nature of a rope wrapped around the neck is inborn, several of its nearest and dearest members having found such a procedure extremely fatal.

However, with the eyes of 200 persons upon me, my vanity got the best of me and I Australian dog-paddled away and gave off a leap which no tarpon would have sneered at. As I rose into the air with the grace of a Ballerina (and when I say 'Ballerina' I mean a Ballerina who has been out of work 25 years because of arch trouble) I heard a "z-i-n-g." It was Acetta casting. The silk line wrapped about

ROYAL BURDENS CREATE WORRIES FOR ENGLISHMEN

LONDON (UP)—Lightening of the heavy burden of official duties borne by British kings is being urged in many quarters.

The burden, it is known, has been intensified many times, over since the World War and still further augmented by the statute of Westminster fixing Dominion status and the Imperial Conference resolutions.

According to the Constitution, Dominion prime ministers communicate directly with the king. This in itself means that the king must have a special secretariat to deal with communications from overseas. At the same time his duties in the home country have increased. The United Kingdom government and Parliament have placed Dominion affairs generally out of their own range, and thus lightened their duties.

my neck several times and the wooden plug on the end bopped my ears.

He then asked me to hold out my little finger, and with the accuracy of a Kentuckian aiming a squirrel gun, he cast. The line looped and looped about my digit, cutting off circulation and bringing an appreciative gasp from the crowd.

My ears were the next targets, and despite their resemblance to rugs nung on a line for beating, I figured I could make him miss. I determined to make him err when, after choosing my ears, he said they made him think of salmon, leaping upstream in an Oregon creek.

As he drew back for the cast I set them to wiggling violently, a trick I mastered in the third grade in an effort to woo and win a girl whose pig-tails were the color of burnished bronze, and whose recess lunch was the best in school.

But he "played" the wiggles beautifully. Again there came that z-i-n-g! And again I felt the sharp sting of the line. He had hooked my left ear perfectly and, had he cared to, could have brought it to gaff in two minutes. At the finish of the exhibition Acetta didn't offer to pay me. I'll always believe that the least he could have done would have been to slip me a "fin."

INAUGURATION HELD IN RAIN

Rain spitting gently at first and then pelting hard broke over the capital before midnight and poured steadily into the morning. Around the White House was the hurry and bustle, always part of a big public occasion. Congress assembled early to take its part in the show. Diplomats came from their swank northwest embassies and legations to participate.

A closed automobile sped the President to St. John's church, across a park from the White House, shortly after 10 a. m.

The President and his party left the White House shortly before noon and sped directly to the capital over streets already practically cleared for the imminent inaugural parade of soldiers and statesmen.

The double swearing on the east capital front smashed precedent in all directions. It was the first time a regularly chosen President since Washington had taken office on a day other than in March. And for this occasion Vice President Garner shifted his own inauguration from the warmth of the Senate chamber to the outside stands. The Vice President did not speak.

The Supreme Court where Mr. Roosevelt's first New Deal policies were often challenged and found their most severe tests, met at 11 a. m. to attend the inauguration. Places were reserved for seven justices on the Presidential platform. Justice Louis D. Brandeis and Justice Harlan F. Stone did not attend. Both have been sympathetic to the New Deal measures submitted for court review.

At 11:40 a. m. Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by an escort of congressmen and senators, left the White House in a closed limousine for the capital ceremonies.

Elaborate care was taken to protect from the elements the old Dutch Bible on which Mr. Roosevelt places his hand as he takes the oath. It was decided to use the 16th century volume in spite of the rain. A cellulose cover was constructed under the President might place his hand.

Members of the Supreme Court arrived at the capital at 11:35 a. m.

Members of the diplomatic corps, the Supreme Court and distinguished guests arrived at the capital platform as the President left the White House.

The rain came harder and colder. Seats on top of the Senate and House wings of the capital contained a scant score of spectators.

Although Mr. Roosevelt rode in a closed car to the capital, the windows were kept down and he waved and smiled constantly to the rain-swept crowds.

Members of the House of Representatives with raincoats and overcoats turned high around their neck, lined the front rows along one side of the Presidential platform.

A sharp wind swept rain hard and cold across Capital Hill as the President arrived followed by Mrs. Roosevelt in another car.

Mrs. Roosevelt wore a blue hat and a black coat with fur collar. She posed for photographers as she came on the platform.

At two minutes of 12 the first high hat appeared among congressmen in their section of the platform. It was worn by Senator Key Pittman. It was raining harder than ever.

Harry B. Smith doubts that Max Baer can climb the comeback trail, rather expects Herr Schmelling to duplicate on Mr. Louis, and wouldn't be surprised to see Der Moxie nudge Mr. Braddock out of the picture, is as and when.

Mr. Smith believes professional baseball on the Coast is going on to greater triumphs and sees amateur athletics for persons of high school age as the very heart of American sports life.

These are some of the things the sports editor of The San Francisco Chronicle told Placerville Lions at their "stag" dinner Tuesday night after one of his co-workers had shown a motion picture depicting what happens in a newspaper office when a big story "breaks."

May we be so bold as to declare that what happens in The Chronicle office also happens in The Republican office with the exception of the stereotyping and engraving and we are equipped to do and do perform the casting part of the stereotyping operation.

But Harry B. Smith is a swell guy and gave a fine talk.

Mrs. Larsen Gains Health Credential

Mrs. Irene Larsen, grammar school health nurse, has recently received credentials as a public health nurse from the state health department. This credential is in addition to her credentials as a registered nurse.

City Officer D. W. LeBourveau on Wednesday morning took into custody a 55-year-old itinerant who had spent Tuesday night in the open, apparently under the influence of liquor. The man was "so cold he couldn't talk" and held a cup of coffee in his hands with great difficulty. He was removed to the county hospital to be "thawed out."

The regular meeting of the county 4-H club council will be held tonight (Wednesday) at the farm advisor's office.

SPORTS WRITER GUEST OF LIONS

world is in the organized athletes of the boys and girls of high school age, he said and, for the benefit of the younger men present, he pointed out that whether games are won or lost, the important feature to be remembered is that the opponent always must be given due consideration and sportsmanship and fair play must rule supreme.

Mr. Smith spoke concerning some of his experiences as a writer of baseball, football, crew and boxing articles and sketched the life of a sportswriter assigned to "cover" a major prizefight.

At the close of his talk he answered several questions relating to various sports and principals in various sports, put by members and guests.

"London" And "Paris" Have 23 Inhabitants

HONOLULU (UP)—U. S. Coast guardsmen report the population of London and Paris now totals 23.

The coast guard brought latest statistics on the two principal "cities" of Christmas Island, 1,000 miles south of Honolulu, after a trip to town back a disabled fishing vessel.

Entire population of the two centers move from one to the other according to demands of their work in manufacture of copra from the 60,000 coconut trees on the island.

With exception of Franta Jerabak, his wife and son, all residents of the island are Tamaitians.
